For President---1912
WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT, OF OHIO.

Poor Sort of Publicity.

A Reno woman filed suit for divorce and then committed suicide by taking poison. She had resided in the riverside city for eight months, seven months of which were spent in a house of ill fame. The woman, it is stated, came of a prominent Salt Lake family and journeyed to Reno for the express purpose of securing a divorce decree. Through her actions Nevada is again in the limelight for press dispatches were sent out broadcast of the incident and the divorce industry tendered a splendid bit of advertising.

It is such publicity that works to the detriment of this state. It is not of the dignified kind, nor does it tend to induce substantial people to emigrate to Nevada to take up their residence here. Capital is not brought through the advertising of the divorce industry, for to the contrary the man of means prefers to live in a commonwealth that demands the respect of its neighbors.

As long as Nevada fosters the divorce industry will the state be kept in the background. Abolish this curse and witness the results. From the sentiment to be observed in various parts of the state there is reason to believe that the next legislature will enact a common sense divorce measure that will not make the courts of Nevada the laughing stock of the nation.

Another Failure.

Colonel Roosevelt's attempt to bulldoze the delegates at the republican national convention into giving him the nomination for the presidency, appear to have failed thus far. It is evident that the brilliant colonel reckoned without his hosts for press dispatches received yesterday announced that President Taft continued to command the fort, with Governor Hadley second in command and Roosevelt nearly indiscernible in the far distance.

Roosevelt's avowal to create a new political party of which he will be the presidential nominee, appears to have been the conception of a deranged mind—but then the colonel has never been credited with having been entirely sane since his famous declaration that his hat was in the ring. The people have spoken and have declared against Roosevelt. Now Roosevelt has spoken and the people can go to thunder as far as he is concerned. He is the dictator, according to his own opinion and will run for president on his own private ticket. At any rate he is assured of one vote the coming election, so that should appease his vanity.

Greatest Camp in America.

The directors of the Tonopah Mining company yesterday declared a dividend and within the next few weeks $400,000 in checks will be distributed to the fortunate shareholders. This company has disbursed over nine million dollars in dividends within the last 10 years and from the present condition of the mine, will distribute an equal amount in the coming 10 years.

Statistics state that the Tonopah Mining company is the largest silver producing mine in America. This record has been gained only by the systematic course of development that has been followed from the earliest date of the mine's history. Not only is the same system being followed at the present time by the Tonopah Mining company, but by the other dividend paying companies of Tonopah and it has been the consistent following of this line of work that makes Tonopah the greatest silver producing camp in America today.

President Taft at least has not disgraced the ermine of his office by appearing at the national convention. He is not following in the footsteps of a certain ex-president who will accept the nomination if it is forced upon him.

Roosevelt's definition of "leader" and "bosses" has been eagerly waited for since the campaign opened, but somehow the explanation of the supposedly vast difference of the two words has not been forthcoming.

At the present rate of progress Tonopah will soon be heralded as the greatest precious metal producing camp in the world.

A monument should be erected to mark the spot where Colonel Roosevelt fell in yesterday's battle.

The sombrero of the "peerless one" is soon expected to come sailing through the atmosphere and alight in the little circle.

Washington News In Weekly Letter From.... United Press

WASHINGTON, June 21. — The sculptor is a real artist, but the decorator who chiseled in stone, objects of an artistic and esthetic character, is only a skilled artisan, according to the decision of the United States customs court of appeals. The court says that ordinarily the ornamentalist in stone imitates that which he actually sees and his work goes no farther than to please the eye. The sculptor, on the other hand, reproduces that which is pictured by his imagination and his production not only appeals to the eye, but to the emotions as well. In fine, one copies and the other in a sense, creates and originates.

The court had to decide whether imported mantels which the importers desired to enter duty free on the ground that they were works of art, were really sculpture as provided for under the law.

The mantels were decorated with fluted columns, friezes and carved cupids. They were executed by an artisan who studied ornamental sculpture and obtained a diploma from an art school, but the court refused to consider him a real sculptor in an artistic sense.

The most remarkable gun in the world is just now receiving its try-outs at the army aviation camp, at College Park, Md. Probably Uncle Sam will accept it as an official arm, and man his fleet of aeroplanes with it.

The gun is the invention of Lieutenant Colonel L. N. Lewis of the army. It is a rapid-fire arm, manufactured especially for aeroplanes. It is small enough and light enough—weight 35 pounds—to be carried on the lap of a passenger in a biplane. Moreover, it is the only air-cooled rapid-fire gun ever invented. It looks almost like a toy, but tests by officers unfamiliar with its mechanism and not used to firing at targets from the air, have proven its deadliness.

The new gun is fired by a passenger on a biplane. It can pour out a perfect hail of steel-jacketed bullets. There is practically no recoil and the mechanism is the simplest. Army and navy officers who have witnessed the tests unite in declaring it is the most powerful arm for the special purposes for which it is designed than has ever been projected. That it will have a place in modern warfare was the general opinion.

Representative William C. Redfield of New York who is constantly digging up all sorts of weird, old but interesting tariff data went to a small banquet the other evening and startled the host and other guests by remarking:

"I am highly honored to be invited to such a lavish feast. Why you serve potatoes here and seem to think no more of it than if they were strawberries, or some other home-grown product unaffected by tariff duties."

Thereupon he dug into one of his many pockets and withdrew a table of figures. Interpreted, they proved to be potato tariff "dope." The congressman then proceeded to tell the assembled banqueters that a big chunk of potato cost is caused by the tariff duty.

"If we raised enough potatoes in the United States to supply the demand," Redfield explained, "they might be within 'more easy reach' of the most humble citizen. But, the duty on potatoes brought to our shores during the first three months of this year was more than $18,700 a day. Tell this to the first man you meet and he will offer to bet you that there is no importation of potatoes into the United States."

The department of agriculture, through the pure food board, has just put the ban on a remarkable remedy—or at least a remedy which is claimed to be remarkable.

The product was a "healing balsam," manufactured in New York. Here what its manufacturers claimed for it.

"Will cure coughs and colds, heals the lungs, inflammation of the lungs, phthisis, lame back, gravel and kidney complaints, pains in the side, stomachache, ague, nervous complaints, palpitation of the heart, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, liver complaints, flesh wounds, burns, chilblains and bruises on man or beast, sore mouths, whooping cough, croup, neuralgia, and will cure levers, coughs and colds in horses."

Chemists at the bureau discovered that this astounding discovery, which would "cure" almost every disease in medical books, was composed of a plain balsam mixture, with resin added apparently to cheapen the solution.

The manufacturers did not contest one suit against them, and the "cure" was poured down a sewer.

FREDDIE WEEKS AFTER A FIGHT IN THIS CITY

LOCAL FIGHTER HAD TROUBLE
WITH GOLDFIELD PROMOTERS; TROUBLE SETTLED

Jake Goodfriend, chairman of the boxing contest sports for the Fourth of July, received a telegram from Louis Polin of Goldfield, Wednesday, stating that Freddie Weeks could be secured for the boxing contest to be held here. Polin is managing Weeks at the present time, and was extremely anxious that the popular fighter be signed for Tonopah.

As Goodfriend had already signed up two San Francisco lightweights, he was forced to inform Polin that he could not use Weeks. It was announced early in the week that Weeks was to box in Goldfield, but it is apparent there has been a hitch in the proceedings in the southern camp. However, late advice yesterday state that the Goldfield promoters have patched up their difficulties with the local fighter and he will engage in a contest there on the coming natal day.

TO THE PUBLIC

Any persons having rooms to spare for the accommodation of visitors to Tonopah during the Fourth of July celebration, will kindly leave address and number of people that can be accommodated with H. H. Bacon, 167 Main street.
